Program

8.30–9.00 Registration and coffee

9.00–9.15 Opening remarks

Chairperson of the Transport and Communications Committee, Member of Parliament Ari Jalonen

9.15–11.00 Hybrid influencing online

Hybrid influencing is seen as one of the biggest threats to democracy. Why is hybrid influencing practiced, and what are its objectives? How do cyber safety and information safety differ from each other? How do we prepare for hybrid influencing?

Journalist Janne “Rysky” Riiheläinen will moderate the panel discussion. The panelists are director Jukka Savolainen from the European Centre of Excellence for Countering Hybrid Threats, one of the founding members of Faktabaari Mikko Salo, Professor Jarno Linnéll from Aalto University, Johan Helsingius from EFF / Chairman of the Board of Directors of BaseN, and journalist Polina Kopylova.

11.00–11.15 Net neutrality

Net neutrality has been debated for as long as the internet has existed, but is the discussion still relevant – and what does net neutrality actually mean in the modern networks?

Johan Helsingius, Electronic Frontier Finland / Chairman of the Board of Directors of BaseN

11.15–12.15 Lunch

12.15-13.45 Protection of privacy online

The EU is preparing for the new General Data Protection Regulation. To what extent does an individual have rights to his or her own online information? Could this information be sold? Should the welfare state help people in understanding the risks in data protection? Why is data referred to as the new “oil” of the economy?

Unit director Timo Kievari from the Ministry of Transport and Communications will moderate the panel discussion. The panelists are researcher Antti Poikola from Aalto University, Special Adviser Leena Kuusniemi from Fipra International, Data Protection Ombudsman Reijo Aarnio and Elias Aarnio from Efficiency.

13.45–14.00 "Sociotechnical contradictions" – project

What kind of social and ethical consequences can radical emerging technologies have?

Professor Toni Ahlqvist, University of Oulu.
